Kane had driven the Dagos off the Colon and towed her out into the stream. When Capt. #### A LOST CONTINENT.

THE EVIDENCE THAT IT WAS IN-GULFED BY THE PACIFIC.

Some Startling Revelations of Modern Science-Curious Facts Which Have a Bearing on the Question-Two Appull ing Alternatives Presented.

Little as we know of the prehistoric adventures of the Atlantic ocean and the countries which border it, we know still less of the Padate of the earthquakes of 1854 and 1868, Proou are fidgety, nervous and generally out to 2,430 fathous. The Tue-arorn, which if sorts, and want to brace up. What you had so alterative that will purify your blood, start healthy action of Liver and Kidneys, restore your vitality, and give renewed health and strength. For known to be about 1,500 fathoms. Thus, so far as we know—and that is a precious little -the basin of the Pacific is a circular bowl about 3,000 fathonis deep in the deepest part, with a well defined rim on the western, north islands cropping up all over, like the peaks of the mountains of a submerged continent. On the southern side the rim is broken off and the bowl merges into the Antarctic ocean. BASIN OF THE PACIFIC.

Assuming that this is a correct description of the Pacific basin-which, from want of adequate soundings, we are far from being dena, sent Judd ashore to demand the plantation. Prestar promptly sezed add the American consul, Wright, and race, varying from 50 to 100 miles in width, and from nothing to 100 fathous in depth, and from nothing to 100 fathous in depth, ocean. Beyond this bench deep water-in places as deep as 3,500 fathous—comes sud-denly. The ocean basin is traversed from north to south by a plateau, extending from the Azores, or even further south, to Iceland, on either side of the plateau is a deep valley of water. On the plateau depths of 2000 fathoms are rare; 1,500 fathoms is the usual average. But just outside the edges of the plateau there are places where no bottom is found at 3,000. The theory of cosmogonists is that this plateau was once dry land, and that it sunk to a depth of nearly two miles beneath the surface of the owean in a convulsion of nature. It was by coupling this hypothesis with Plato's remarkable account of the lost island of Atlantis, from which, ac cording to the Egyptians, they and the Greeks, and indeed all the enlightened peo-ples of ancient times, derived their civilization, that Ignatius Donnelly constructed his interesting theory of a loss continent.

Sir William Dawson has not furnished the public with the reasons that induced him to suppose that the Creator's work is finished in the Atlantic and unfluished in the Pacific. It cannot have been that he argued that there had been no subsidence of the bottom of the latter, for the evidences of such a catastrophe were long ago pointed out by Dana and Dar-win. The coral insect will not build below 100 or 150 feet beneath the surface of the water. Yet coral detritus has been brought up from depths of 2,000 to 3,000 fathous, and this throughout Polynesia, as far north as 2 degs. or 3 degs. above the tropic of Capricorn, and as far south as Australia. Hence, it seems that what is now the bottom of a

SOME VERY CURIOUS FACTS. Again, the colossal remains on Easter island show that at some time or other that island must have been connected with islands in their light draught canoes, and the trade-winds blow from the cast and southeast for eleven months in the year. Nor could they have come from the west of South America for they are men of a different race from any that ever lived on this continent, being, in fact, obviously members of the Polynesian family. Hence, the former existence of a South Pacific continent, though not absolutely demonstrated, is rendered so probable that no man of science would be surprised at the discovery of absolute evidence of its hav-in been.

Geographers have amused themselves by reconstructing the lost continent, as Don-nelly reconstructed Atlantis. They have taken existing islands for the tops of mountain ranges, and imagined valleys between them, spreading from range to range. Thus, Dana imagines two principal mountain ranges, one starting from the Hawaiian group and running south to the Mendana, Society and Pearl islands, and another starting from the Society group and running westwardly through the Navigators, the Fiji group, the Solomon group, New Guinea, the Spice islands, Celebos, Borneo, Sumatra and joining the continent of Asia at Malacca. Perhaps this theory of cosmogony is as recondable with the facts as any other. It involves two alternatives, each more ap palling than the other. If there was a Pa-cific continent, how did it disappear? Did it fall rashing down through the waters, in an instant, in some mighty earthquake which hurled millions of human beings into eternity with such awful swiftness that no one knew what was happening to him? Or did it suby, strength and wholesomeness. More connomical that the ordinary kinds, and cannot be sold in competition withthe multitude or

"The Devil and the Deep Sea." The old story of the poor soul who was caught between "The devil and the deep sea," gets a new illustration from the dealing of doctors and drugs with malaria. The story is soon told: "My daughter," said a lady, "had been struggling with malaria for four years. She was all the time out of health—poor appetite, disordered digestion, health—poor appetite, disordered digestion, pale earthy color, pain in the head, limbs and back, and every now and then a right hard chill, followed by fever. Then we would send for our doctor and he would prescribe quinine, just as he did from the first—and so kept doing all along—until the name of quinine sounds like the tolling of the bell. Clearly between the two, her health was being ruined and her very life in health was being ruined and her very life in health was being ruined and her very life in peril. She was really between 'The devil SPRING and SUMMER, and the deep sea.' Sometimes the name is varied, and it is called some other 'ine' in place of quinine, but it is all the same—the old firm with a new sign. In this dilema: lady friend said: Why not try Humph rey's Homeopathic Specifies, Nos. Ten and rey's Homeopathic Specifics, Nos. 12n and Sixteen.' I tried them. They were a success from the first, and not only cured the malaria, but restored her to perfect health. Prench Fancy Percales. Madras and Cheviot and left no trace of disease or drug pois-

PAWNING HER BOY'S CLOTHES FOR MED boy had been very ill for several years, had expended all of her means to pay for medicine. At last the doctors gave him up and said he must die. He suffered so terribly with rheumatism that he could not be moved. One day some one told her about the Mount Lebanon Shakers. The evidence of the curative powers of their Extract of Roots was so convincing that she pawned the poor boy's clothes to buy a bottle of the remedy (Siegel's Syrup), but now she feels proud that she did so, for it was the means of curing her son. The Shakers say that this is the result of indigestion and that the medicine cured the dyspepiia, and that the rheumatism was only a symptom of the
